FRED BENEVENTO

"Ben"

Obliging, aggressive, merry, good mixer, an all around fellow. One of our greatest authorities on sports, political science, current events, and women. His lively discourses, wrestling ability, spontaneous orations of facts and figures have revived the spirit of the locker room. Ben attended Catholic University and plans to open a restaurant in his favorite city — Washington, D.C.

JUDSON BLACKMAN

"Jigaboo"

Boisterous, jovial, hail-fellow-well-met. Favorites — Drew Seminary, especially Ginnie, dancing, hot colored bands, especially Lunceford, pinochle. Class treasurer '38; class president '39; co-manager basketball '38; Phi Theta Kappa. Jud has made a soft spot in our hearts by hitting a home-run in the Soph-Fresh game in '38 and hopes some day to have the "Engineers" work for him.

EDWARD CIP CER

"Ed"

Enthusiastic, hard working, visionary, sociable, earnest. Class treasurer '39, on the Jayvee Squad in '38, Phi Theta Kappa treasurer. Ed delights in auto races, driving, pinochle, and the company of "the gang". His ambition is to become an army flyer and to enter the Boeing School of Aeronautics.

RUSSELL CODY

"Russ"

Talkative, manly, confident, handsome. His maroon sweater, black wavy hair, and Irish wit have long been the enjoyment of the French class. His extraordinary guarding in basketball will long be remembered. With great pride, Russ states that his greatest ambition is to become a C. P. A.

CARL HUBER
"Carl"

Fun-loving, capable, solid, generous. Carl, another third year student, has proven himself to be one of the most valuable assets to Junior College. He is referred to as "Uncle Carl and His Tractor" by most of his associates. Because of his business ability, Carl has been a success as Business Manager of the Scribe, R.U.R., and the year book.

JOSEPH JOHNSON
"Joe"

Frank, sociable, honest, able. Joe, the Nelson Eddy of Junior College, has thrilled us with his selections many times. His pleasant, powerful voice has aided greatly in developing the Glee Club. Joe sincerely hopes to become a minister and more than once has tried, after a revealing Soc. lecture, to make the black sheep see "the light".

CECELIA KOCHISS
"Koch"

Energetic, versatile, popular, business-like. Koch finds more time and more things to do than anyone could possibly imagine. She has participated in Phi Theta Kappa, Glee Club, Tennis Committee, Student Activities Council, and R.U.R. How she does it all is a mystery but that girl lives and loves it!

ALTHEA LANE
"Althea"

Dancing feet, lively, attractive, well-dressed. There just aren't enough mirrors in J.C.C. to help Althea solve her numerous problems as to how she should wear her hair or the shade of lipstick she should use. Her rapid chatter with Carolyn can always be heard enlivening the locker room.

ELSA LUSEBRINK
"Elsa"

Popular, charming hostess, amiably, comely. Elsa has done her part at Junior College by serving as class secretary in '38 and '39 and working on the Social Room Committee. Elsa has the ability to find herself at ease with any situation. She shall probably find this a great asset in her chosen field—nursing.

MARSHALL MANTLER
"Bud"

Handsome, critical, witty, original. Bud carries a long list of feminine admirers and because of his unexplainable personality shall always add more. Golf, tennis, and basketball are his leading sports. Widely read and experienced, he always has some subject to hold the attention of his listeners. Columbia is his next stop—becoming a stock broker his goal.

ALMA MANZI
"Peanuts"

Friendly, sweet, cute, petite, a sunny little miss from Westport who always has a smile for everyone. Her favorite pastime is seeing plays at the Country Playhouse. She likes cute clothes and looks particularly well in yellow. Her greatest accomplishment was to convince the librarian that she really was old enough to take out a book on the girl delinquent.

IRVING MARK
"Irv"

Res. less, shrewd, well dressed, "jitterbug". Irv is a self-confessed authority on Business Law. His lengthy discussions, which may range from involved legal problems to the relative merits of the latest swing bands, have been the highlight of many between-class discussions. His ambition to be a partner in the law firm of Mark and Glass, will probably be superseded only by his desire to lead a band.

CAROLYN McELDOWNEY

"Mac"

Page-boy hair style. drawer of artistic pictures in her text-books, always with Althea Lane. Mac dislikes classes and homework but, all in all, school is all right. Her most notable achievement was talking in her sleep in the English Lit. class. She plans to go to the Connecticut College for women and learn how to become a housewife!

HENRY OCHMAN

"Hank"

Quit, shy, tall, bashful. Although very reserved, one quickly learns that Hank is a very likeable fellow. Basketball is his meat and for two years he has commanded a position on the varsity. Sports in general are his chief pastime but he has shown scholarly talent in school endeavors. With great perseverance he has pursued the field of Engineering.

STANLEY OCHMAN

"Stan"

Joking, athletic, convivial, active. In many respects the other half of the Ochman combination is like his brother. Stan also finds basketball the most absorbing pastime mankind has yet evolved. Although an engineer, his broad knowledge of economics is startling to the business students. He is looking forward to an aeronautical career.

WLLIAM PALMER

"Bill"

Good natured, grinning, studious, well-groomed. Bill is endowed with great artistic ability and it is to him that we give thanks for many of the posters seen at J.C.C. Bill has mastered most of the latest dance steps and was seen at each social function rivaling Fred Astaire. He intends to finish his schooling at Pratt Institute.

ROBERT PANISH

"Bob"

Tall, friendly, nautically-minded, cordial. Bob has a special passion for pickles and chocolate bars. He can be seen in the halls or in the chemistry lab, his usual haunt, eating a long dill pickle or a bar of chocolate daily. His boat and swimming seem to be his favorite interests at present.

FRANK PIZZOLORUSSO

"Pizzolla"

Happy, honest, healthy, husky. Being a boy scout in his youth has probably left him with the philosophy of life he now possesses—a helping hand and word to everyone. Frank is a lover of the great outdoors and spends his spare time camping. It is not unusual to see him walk three miles to school every morning. We admire his vigor and vitality.

BARBARA PLUMB

"Barb"

Dignified, generous, quiet, smiling. If Barbara owned the Brooklyn Bridge she would probably give it away instead of trying to sell it. Her generosity is exceeded only by her good nature and pleasant manner. Always willing to mingle with everyone, Barbara has done more than her part to share her graciousness with everyone.

NICHOLAS RUSSO

"Nick"

Dependable, intelligent, companionable, determined. Despite being president of Phi Theta, Nick always finds a locker room game of pinochle most enjoyable. His great weakness is the out-of-doors—he could spend the rest of his life in a tent. However, we see Nick headed for the best in life.

PATRICK SCINTO
"Pat"

Dark, silent, hard-working, sincere. Pat effectively guided the '39 basketball squad as manager and assisted in Men's Club activities. His daily recitations in English proved to Dean Scurr that Pat came to class as he always came everywhere—prepared.

NOEL SMITH
"Noel"

Conservative, gracious, energetic, efficient. Noel has done an admirable piece of work throughout the year on the SCRIBE. Being a junior, Noel served as a great friend-in-need to many students who approached him for his sound advice. Beside being a connoisseur of good foods, Noel is also a maitre de chef when it comes to chocolate cake.

MARY SPROVIERO
"Sis"

Carefree, laughing, fun-loving, generous. Larson's loss was Junior College's gain, as far as Sis goes. A sister to everyone, an outstanding personality, a fine sense of humor, and a devil-may-care attitude all add up to make her a very popular girl. She shall always be remembered for the quantities of sandwiches she has handed out.

LOUISE THOMPSON
"Wink"

Cute, well dressed, giggling, without a worry. Wink is the girl whose forty-seven different varieties of laughs could always be heard coming from the pergola. Riding and eating ice cream cones are Wink's two favorite sports. George and she shall be remembered as inseparable companions.

CHARLES WAGNER
"Bud"

Congenial, democratic, capable, smiling. Bud was class president in '38 and vice president in '39. He will be back at J.C.C. next year to continue his study in chemistry. Bud's cheerful tenor lends much cheer to the halls of the school and to the Glee Club. Bud, with his great store of vitality shall never grow old.

PATRICIA YOUNG
"Pat"

Feminine, pleasant, musical, charming. Pat shall be remembered for entertaining us in assemblies many times with her singing and piano playing. Her daily luncheon consisted of a tuna fish sandwich and a piece of lemon meringue pie from the day she entered school to the day she left. Such consistency is unusual in a young lady.

ELEANOR GOODWILL
"Eleanor"

Cheerful, helpful, obliging. It was to our advantage to have Eleanor back for a third year. Being one of the exponents of Chinese Checkers, she challenges each student, after fortifying herself with her usual lunch consisting of tuna fish sandwich, a "coke", and a chocolate nut sundae. Consistency is one of Eleanor's strongest virtues.

WILLIAM BRAY

"Bill"

Compliant, sensible, robust, considerate. Bill is an ardent politician and one of the staunchest supporters of the business students. He is vice-president of the Men's Club and a connoisseur at the art of making spaghetti. He hopes to go to Syracuse to take up marketing and merchandising.

MICHAEL LUCAS

"Mike"

Scrappy, hard fighting, basketball player, Mike has put plenty of life and excitement into our games. He also excels in soccer and football and enjoys long walks. Although interested in photography he intends to major in forestry. Mike's excellent sense of humor, his pinochle, and harmonica playing, have made him one of the locker room favorites.

PAUL McNAMARA

"Paul"

Practical, determined, excellent company. Nick Russo's feud partner. A member of Phi Theta. Paul's most notable contribution to the school and the English Lit. class is his profound knowledge and wisdom in being able to interpret all the poems, sonnets, and discourses that are practically unintelligible to anyone else. He plans to go to Lehigh to take up journalism.

EILEEN WINES

"Eileen"

Gloss of fashion, active, cheerful, refreshing. Eileen is a junior whose presence and helping hand have been a great asset. Her appropriate suggestions have always been worthy of consideration. Eileen, with her latest attire, is deserving of the name of "Miss Vogue of Junior College".

ALMA MATER HYMN

*Our Alma Mater, pioneer and leader,
To thee our praise and loyalty we sing.
Our noble college, nestling 'mong the maples,
Thy fame and honor through the world shall ring.*

*Blue, dashing waves that foam upon the sea shore
Lend their endurance and their strength to thee.
Off in the distance, curling smoke of factories
Give inspiration to all industry.*

*Thy stately halls have fostered our ambitions;
Our aspirations, etched with flaming light;
Knowledge, vouchsafed, and legion friends accorded;
Service revealed, on Truth's great shining height.*

*Down through the years, the mellow, golden seasons,
Mem'ries of thee in all our hearts will cling;
These joyous days return in glad remembrance;
Then once again our love and praise we'll sing.*

—Music by Professor F. S. Zampiere

THE IVY PLANTING

Last summer's trees, full panoplied in green,
 Loomed high against the sky, proud of their leaves
 Which danced and sparkled in the breeze and sun,
 Proud of the images and shades they cast.
 But all too soon the frosts of autumn came:
 Leaves withered, tumbled, and were lost along
 The pathways of the earth, forgotten, gone,
 All strangers to the trees, their root of life.

And now,

Again the snow, the sleet, the chilling winds
 Have fled with the warmth of spring; once more green buds,
 Green leaves

Assume the place of those of yesteryear.

Few hours remain with you, Our Mother, who
 In knowledge gave us hope and life. Soon each
 Shall take a single path from here; perhaps
 We never shall be joined again. And halls
 That echoed with our laughter, halls that knew
 Our cares, may soon forget when voices new
 And footfalls strange are heard. Hearts grieve; our thoughts
 Are lonely, sad, in our farewell to you.

Hence, now,

Beside you, here, we plant, forever young,
 Forever green, a leaf to cling to you

In hope

That in your memory we shall not die.

A MESSAGE TO J.C.C.
WITH RHYTHMICAL VARIATIONS

To "Certain Interested Students" at J.C.C.
Who have tendered me the crown of their Monarchy,
Please list to my words of wild hysteria
In accepting this crown as King of Wisteria.

I'm so sorry to learn of your beautiful Queen's resignation
She abdicated for love—of weather—but couldn't she wait 'til vacation?
But love—by the way—is the only real reason
Why I accept the reign of Your Festival Season.

Love of all you students at J.C.C. and what you will always mean to me,
Love of the beautiful flowers and kindnesses by which you have honored me

You students, faculty, administration, and alumni of J.C.C.
I do wish you each could realize how much I appreciate all you have done for me.

The nurses all say that not even Clark Gable could rate
The beautiful flowers and love you all have sent me to date.

I accept for the love of our college which I hope you will always covet
"It is just a small college, we know, but there are those who will always love it"

So said Daniel Webster of Dartmouth—many, many years ago,
But that same advancement our college will always merit
With the loyal support and successes of you who love it.

Even these awful pills and heartless M.D.s aren't quite so hard to endure
When I can manage to think if I suffer them they'll bring me back to you for sure.

The nurses aren't so bad—some of them I really think are pretty
When they do such nice things for me and hold my hand in sympathy.

The little Dears wash my hands and face and even comb my hair,
And my legs and tootsies they bathe and dry with great and gentle care.

They sponge my back often and rub it with alcohol just so,
Then they powder me all over from head to toe.
Why the Powder?—you got me there—I really couldn't know,
Maybe it's just the lady's habit—or prerogative—think so?
Of dirt, where it can be seen they leave nary a speck,
But invariably they forget to wash the back of my neck.
At making my bed—these nurses display the geatest of skill,
They turn me on my side and make a great big hill
Of linens and tough draw sheets or whatever they will,
Then they smooth out the surface of this great big hill
And over it they roll—"the professor"—like a pink capsule.
Now they pull and they tug 'til the other side's right
And nary one wrinkle is left in sight,
Then on goes a nice top sheet and blanket and spread.
The result of all this may it now be said
Is a clean "comfy" Prof in a nice white bed.

Now I must say Goodbye and God Bless You—every one,
I do hope I'll see you before you homeward run
To thank you again for your kindnesses and messages of cheer.
They make we want to get back to you before the end of the year.
And now as I humbly don the crown of His Royal Highness, the King
Of the Wisteria Blossoms and that sort of thing,
I doubt if these lines are really words of Hysteria
In accepting the realms of the King of Wisteria.

Your Old Prof. Herren,

H.R.H. of the Wisteria Festival
Sometimes known as "Little Joe"

To Professor Herren, who is now recuperating in the hospital from a serious illness, we send out thanks for this bit of poetry and wish him every kind of luck for a speedy and complete recovery.
