commencement speaker

DAN W. LUFKIN

Doctor of Science, honoris causa

A native New Yorker, Dan W. Lufkin attended public school in Rye, the Hotchkiss School in Lakeville, Connecticut, and Yale University. He graduated in 1953, and after two years of service in the Marine Corps, entered the Harvard School of Business Administration, receiving an MBA in 1957. Following business school, Lufkin joined the private investment firm of Jeremiah Milbank in New York City. In 1959, he and two associates, William H. Donaldson (a Yale classmate) and Richard H. Jenrette (who was a classmate at the Harvard Business School), formed Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette, Inc., an investment banking, brokerage and financial management firm specializing in research and early identification of investment opportunities, in money management for institutional clients, and in financial consulting for corporate clients. A resident of Newtown, Connecticut, Lufkin became increasingly concerned with the social and environmental problems of the State. In 1969, he founded Connecticut Action Now, Inc., a nonprofit, non-partisan organization dedicated to citizen involvement in environmental protection and social change. He served nationally as a member of the original nine-man Steering Committee for Earth Day in 1970, and as senior advisor, Environment, White House Conference on Children and Youth in 1971. In September, 1971, Governor Meskill appointed Lufkin to be the first Commissioner of the Department of Environmental Protection for the State of Connecticut. Lufkin gave up all his business interests and associations before taking office. Commissioner of the Department in its formative first two years, Lufkin pulled together the many separate agencies, departments, commissions and boards previously dealing with the environment, created a unified, efficient organization with broad powers, and fought for new landmark legislation to help clean up Connecticut's environment. With the reorganization completed and the major pieces of legislation passed in air and water quality, protection of coastal and inland wetlands, enforcement and the establishment of a statewide Resource Recovery Authority, he resigned June 30, 1973 to return to private life. Mr. Lufkin is a Trustee of the Danbury Hospital, the Hotchkiss School, the Environmental Defense Fund, the New York Zoological Society and Nature Conservancy, and a Director of the National Park Foundation, Scientist's Institute for Public Information, Connecticut Audubon Society and The International Atlantic Salmon Foundation. He is a sponsor of the Connecticut Conservation Association and a member of the Citizen's Committee on Population and the American Future.

honorary degree recipients

KURT VONNEGUT, JR.

Doctor of Letters, honoris causa

In the words of Mr. Vonnegut himself, "All the true things I am about to tell you are shameless lies." Kurt Vonnegut, Jr., a native of Indiana, attended Cornell University, Carnegie Institute of Technology, and the University of Chicago—institutions which figure as alma maters in several of his novels. He began his literary career as a police reporter in Chicago, experimented with public relations at General Electric Company in Schenectady (see Cat's Cradle), and cast his lot as a free lance writer and novelist in 1950. Elements of his life appear transfigured in several of his novels—e.g., his army experiences in Slaughterhouse Five. His first published novel was Player Piano, in 1951; the next, Canary in a Cathouse, came eight years later, but since then his novels have appeared at much more frequent intervals. His alter ego, Kilgore Trout, has been with us for almost twenty years, and Philboyd Studge for, it seems, almost as long. Critics first mistook him for a science-fiction writer, confusing him, in fact, with Kilgore Trout, and for several years gave him little serious consideration. Students first recognized his qualities and he was for a time in the uncomfortable position of a cult-writer: a cult, however, not of his own creation. Serious critics finally pigeon-holed him as a black comedian, a category from which he has with some difficulty extricated himself, thanks to the extraordinarily wide readership which his works have commanded. One critic has written, "Over the years Vonnegut has advanced from diagnostician to exorcist, finding in intensified comic art the magic analgesic for the temporary relief of existential pain."

FRANK J. DUNNIGAN

Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa

Frank J. Dunnigan was born in 1914 in Westport, Connecticut. He is an alumnus of the Junior College of Connecticut, Class of 1934, and New York University, Class of 1940. He joined Prentice-Hall, Inc., the publishing firm in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey, as an accountant in 1937. He was elected treasurer of Prentice-Hall in 1953 and a member of the Board of Directors in 1954. Mr. Dunnigan's career with the company continued with appointments to a vice presidency in 1962 and to the position of Executive Vice President in 1965. He assumed his current duties as President and Chief Executive Officer in 1971. During World War II, he served with the U.S. Army Anti-aircraft Artillery for five years, rising through the ranks from private to captain. He is a member of the Newcomen Society, an honorary association of businessmen. Mr. and Mrs. Dunnigan reside in Fort Lee, New Jersey.
