The Mace

The Commencement Grand Marshal carries the mace in the procession immediately preceding the President both entering and leaving the ceremony. The office of mace bearer is purely ceremonial, and derives from medieval times in England when an official was taking office or opening his court and needed a bodyguard. Then the mace, a formidable weapon, was held ready to protect the person of the dignitary. From the sixteenth century in England and since colonial days in America, it has become a symbol of office only, and is carried by a distinguished member of the faculty.

Mr. Jack Kiselstein of J. Albert Johnson Jewelers of Fairfield crafted the mace which was given as a gift to the University by the Class of 1964.

It is made of sterling silver with 18 oval amethyst stones set around the upper portion and a large circular amethyst stone set at the highest point.

President's Medallion

President's Medallion — Symbolic of the authority of the President's office, the President's Medallion with its supporting chain is a gift of the Class of 1967, and was worn for the first time by Dr. Henry W. Littlefield, President of the University of Bridgeport at the 52nd Commencement exercises on June 9, 1968.

Designed and crafted by Mrs. Margaret Seeler, goldsmith, silversmith and enameler of Weston, Connecticut, the Medallion is executed in sterling silver, gold and enamel and bears the inscription "The President, University of Bridgeport."

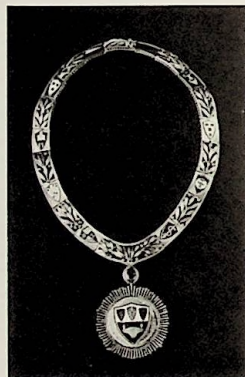

An enamel shield is implanted in the Medallion with the design worked in fine gold wire and enamel fired at 1700 degrees. The design includes a representation of the Greek lamp thought to date back to the fifth century B.C. and presented to the University of Bridgeport by the Greek government. The lamp forms the basis for the University seal.

Laurel leaves, representing the state flower, and the Wisteria vine, symbolic of the University, have been crafted into the shield designs on the Medallion.

An amethyst in the University's color of purple separates the Medallion from the link chain which drapes over the President's shoulders.

Shields crafted in fine gold wire and enamel have been inserted in the chain with designs symbolic of each one of the colleges within the University. Laurel leaves separate each of the shields.

The Medallion is worn at all formal academic programs of the University. It is handed down, in turn, to succeeding Presidents of the University of Bridgeport.

Flags of Many Nations

The flags flying above the stage are symbolic of the 60 nations represented by our international student body.
